OVERVIEW

FAOU (Fatima Al-Fihri Open University), is a non-profit international online institute registered in Estonia as a European Digital Company. The university was established in 2016, and since then we have developed courses in various specialties such as management, politics, migration, gender, etc. with professors from well-ranked universities. We believe that open and free education is a right for everyone, and that's why we have created various academic programs, accessible from everywhere and to everyone without pre-conditions or entrance exams.

It's a university which gives you higher education for free and with convenient self-paced study options world wide regardless of age, country, educational or cultural background. Since almost all the UN and development entities consider education a crucial driver of development, we envision an abundant, developed world in which individuals can easily access higher education.
